

About the F8D response form

Response to a general protections application not involving dismissal

About general protections disputes not involving dismissal

The general protections provisions of the Fair Work Act 2009 aim to protect workplace rights and freedom of association, and to provide protection from workplace discrimination. The general protections provisions apply to current and prospective employees, employers and independent contractors.

In general protections disputes not involving dismissal, if the parties to the dispute agree to participate, the Fair Work Commission (Commission) must hold a private conference to deal with the dispute. In a conference, the Commission will try to resolve the dispute including by mediation or conciliation. If the dispute does not settle, if the Commission considers that, taking into account all the materials before it, a general protections court application would not have a reasonable prospect of success, it must advise the parties of this.

If the Respondent does not agree to participate in a conference by the Commission, or the dispute is unresolved after a conference, the Applicant may choose to apply to a court to deal with the matter. The Applicant does not need a certificate from the Commission before making an application to court.

For more information about general protections, please see the Commission's General protections guides and the General Protections Benchbook.

Who can use this form?

Use this form if you are the Respondent or are responding for the Respondent and the Commission has served the Respondent with a Form F8C – General protections application not involving dismissal.

If the Respondent has been served with two or more applications concerning the same general protections dispute (such as multiple employees making general protections applications), you can lodge one response for all of the applications if your response is the same for each application. If necessary, you can attach details of each individual applicant to whom your response relates (including name, date of commencement and entitlements) in a separate sheet.

Lodgment and service of your completed form

1. Lodge this response form and any supporting documents with the Commission within 7 calendar days after the Respondent was served with the Form F8C application. You can lodge your response by email, post or in person at the Commission office in your state or territory.
2. Serve a copy of your response and any supporting documents on the Applicant within 7 calendar days after the Respondent was served with the Form F8C application. You can serve this response and supporting documents on the Applicant in a number of ways, including by email or by express or registered post. Make sure you send the documents to the email or postal address specified in the Form F8C application.

Where to get help

Commission staff & resources

Commission staff cannot provide legal advice. However, staff can give you information on:

- Commission processes
- how to make a response to the Commission
- how to fill out forms
- where to find useful documents such as legislation and decisions
- other organisations that may be able to assist you.

The Commission's website www.fwc.gov.au also contains a range of information that may assist.

Legal or other representation

Representation is where another person (such as a family member or friend, lawyer or paid agent, or an employee of a union or employer organisation) speaks or acts on a person's behalf, or assists a person in certain other ways in relation to a matter before the Commission. There is no requirement to be represented at the Commission.

There are some restrictions on representation by a lawyer or paid agent.

Generally, a person must give notice to the Commission (by lodging a Form F53 – Notice that a person: (a) has a lawyer or paid agent; or (b) will seek permission for lawyer or paid agent to participate in a conference or hearing) and seek permission from the Commission Member dealing with the matter if they wish to have a lawyer or paid agent represent them by participating in a conference or a hearing.

Apart from participating in a conference or hearing, a person's lawyer or paid agent can represent them without permission, unless the Commission decides otherwise. For example, the lawyer or paid agent can prepare and lodge written applications, responses and submissions with the Commission, and communicate in writing with the Commission and other parties to the matter on the person's behalf.

The requirement to give notice and seek permission for a lawyer or paid agent to participate in a conference or hearing, does not apply if the lawyer or paid agent is:

- an employee or officer of the person or
- a bargaining representative that is representing the person or

- an employee or officer of an employee or employer organisation, or an association of employers or a peak council, that is representing the person.

Rule 12(2) of the Fair Work Commission Rules 2013 sets out further exceptions to the requirement to give notice and seek permission.

For more information about representation by lawyers and paid agents, see s.596 of the Fair Work Act 2009, rules 11, 12 and 12A of the Fair Work Commission Rules 2013 and the Commission's practice note on representation by lawyers and paid agents.

Glossary of common terms

Applicant – This is the person or organisation that is making an application.

Jurisdictional objection – This is a type of objection a Respondent can raise to an application. A Respondent can make this kind of objection if they think that the Commission, for a technical or legal reason, cannot hear the matter.

Lawyer – This is a person who is admitted to the legal profession by a Supreme Court of a State or Territory.

Paid agent – in relation to a matter before the Commission, is an agent (other than a bargaining representative) who charges or receives a fee to represent a person in the matter.

Party – A party is an Applicant, a Respondent or another person or organisation involved in a matter or case that is brought to the Commission.

Respondent – The person or organisation responding to an application made by an Applicant.

Service – Serving a document means giving a copy of the document to a person or organisation, usually to the other party to the matter. You can serve a document in a number of ways, including by email, express or registered post, or in person. Parts 7 and 8 of the Fair Work Commission Rules 2013 deal with service.

1. Jurisdictional objection(s)

1.1 Does the Respondent have any jurisdictional objection(s) to the application?

Jurisdictional objections relate to why an Applicant is not eligible to make an application to the Commission. A jurisdictional objection is not simply that the Respondent thinks that there was not a contravention of the general protections provisions. The Commission's General Protections Benchbook has more information on jurisdictional objections.

Yes

No

If you answered yes to question 1.1 – Explain why the Respondent objects

2. Commission conference

2.1 Does the Respondent agree to take part in a conference convened by the Commission?

 The Commission must conduct a conference to deal with a general protections dispute not involving dismissal only if the parties to the dispute agree.

See s.374 of the Fair Work Act 2009.

No

3. Remedy

3.1 What is the Respondent's response to the outcome the Applicant is seeking?

 At question 2.1 of the Form F8C, the Applicant set out the outcome that they are seeking. Using numbered paragraphs, set out the Respondent's response.

4. Alleged contravention

4.1 What is the Respondent’s response to the alleged contravention(s) set out in question 3 of the application?

At question 3 of the Form F8C, the Applicant set out the alleged actions that led them to apply to the Commission, including which sections of the Fair Work Act 2009 were allegedly contravened by the Respondent and how.

Using numbered paragraphs, set out the Respondent’s response to the information that the Applicant has set out at question 3 of the Form F8C. If the Respondent thinks that there was no contravention of the general protections provisions in Part 3-1 of the Fair Work Act 2009, this can be explained here.
